DEDICATION

As we prepare to step out into our chosen fields, we do well to study the world of today. The future of this world lies in our hands. Our ranks may give rise to a Prime Minister or a President but, one thing we can be sure of, is that we shall constitute the everyday hard working people of tomorrow, and on these shoulders the burden lies.

We thank you, Mother Gerald and the staff showing us the Christian principles of charity, honesty and truth in action.

In sincere gratitude for these invaluable gifts, we the graduating class of 1961 present, the Year-book.

EDITORIAL BY HIS EXCELLENCY BISHOP CODY FOR PUBLICATION IN THE "CARDINAL" OF CORPUS CHRISTI HIGH SCHOOL

"According to the condition of their nature, error seems to be more proper to animals than knowledge. For there is plenty of evidence that men, left to themselves, can be deceived and can fall into error. Indeed, if they are to learn any truth at all, they have to be taught by others. Again, the mind spends a much longer time in error than in the knowledge of the truth; since it can hardly attain truth, even after long study."

These are not your Bishop's words. They are those of St. Thomas Aquinas, who died about seven centuries ago, and who has kept our philosophers and theologians pretty busy ever since at the mere task of trying to understand all that he wrote.

There is a great warning in his words. And I think that it is while we are in high school that we need the warning most. And the reason is that it is during these four or five years of our education that we are most likely to put too much confidence in human knowledge, and in our own share of it. If you have the frame of mind which I myself enjoyed when I was a high school student, you have glanced rapidly over those from St. Thomas; you have noticed nothing remarkable about them; you have admitted that they are true, in a way; but you are thinking that, of course, all this ignorance and error that he is talking about lies behind you, or is rapidly being put behind you; and that, after all, these are the words of a man who lived back in medieval times, when nobody knew much about anything.

But St. Thomas means it. He grimly means it. You and I could study all our lives, in any field of science you like, and we would still be doomed to spend most of our years in ignorance and error, reaching a little bit of truth only after patient labour. This is man's condition, his natural condition. Every great thinker knows this; and our great scholars and scientists today would approve every word of what St. Thomas says.

To spend most of his life in ignorance or error! Can it be really true that this is man's lot? And why should it be so?

That last question deserves an answer, and could be given one, although it would use up every page of your CARDINAL. But I will propose a simple test instead. Think over all that you have learned, or will learn, of human sciences. Of how much of it are we absolutely sure? For how much of it have we unmistakable proof? How much of it is beyond reach of objection?

If almost one half of the world nowadays lies under the control of Communism, a set of theories about man and his destiny so full of contradictions and absurdities, this is a state of things which would cause no surprise to St. Thomas. It is much easier to be wrong than right.

So it is not for nothing, you see, that St. John speaks of our Lord as the Light shining in the darkness, a darkness which did not comprehend it. Without that Light, we might be as helpless as the communists; as absolutely sure as they are of what is absolutely false. And I am not going to come out into the open. I hope that these brief lines from your Bishop will help you to understand, not only why you need Christ so badly, but also why you need Corpus Christi High School so badly; and why, while you remain students in it, you must put your confidence, not in human sciences, but in Him who came to be our Way, our Truth and our Life.

Dear Graduates -

At a time when screaming headlines proclaim the millionth reason for losing faith, hope and charity; when news reports encourage people only to escape via any means available it is then time to look at the facts.

You possess the requisite knowledge to pursue successfully the endeavours you have undertaken, whether it be further schooling, training or whatever. That you can do this I have no doubt, because you are "the salt of the earth", and "the light of the world". To fulfil this God-given power you possess such assets as time, youth, strength, talents in the natural sphere and in the supernatural, Faith, Hope and Charity. With all these gifts you can disprove the lies, the half truths and dispel the darkness being visited upon us by the ministers of gloom and doom by giving back to the world, not only in politics and economics but in academics as well the world's most needed virtue, HOPE. In doing this you will not be self-seeking, you will not be working for that which tarnishes or corrupts, but for that which is eternal. Then paradoxically that light you shine upon others will shine upon you, that salt that makes things palatable will preserve you.

And so live without foolish fear and live fully - my prayer for you - that you may LIVE all the days of your life.

Joyfully yours,
